GOOD SHOWING IN TEMPERANCE DAY PARADE.

Thousands of Marchers Took Part in the Big Procession in Chicago—School Children Turned Out in Force—Big Day for Chicago—Distinguished Reviewers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Crowds of people thronged the lake front yesterday to witness the formation of the big temperance day parade. Michigan avenue was lined with a mass of humanity from Park row to Jackson street, and the scene resembled the start of the Pullman road race which has now passed into history. The presence of several hundred wheelmen made the resemblance stronger, the Associated Cycling clubs of the city turning out by invitation to head the grand procession marching in the cause of temperance.

The chilly breezes from the lake kept the onlookers moving about to keep warm, and the children from the public schools, who were massed near Park row by thousands, were anxious to parade long before the column moved. In order to lend enthusiasm to the event the girls of the public, parochial and private schools not included in the organizations in the parade were given a place on the sidewalk in front of the Columbus monument, and it would not have been considered undignified if the brave old discoverer had turned about on his pedestal and bended his knee in acknowledgement of the flattering attention paid him. It was fully an hour from the time the spectators began to assemble on the lake front until the different divisions marshaled wheeled their commands into line and order was made out of the confusion incidental to broken ranks. Different detachments were constantly arriving and couriers were flying up and down the long line to receive and transmit special instructions. The escort of police arrived early and the officers in their new uniforms yet bright from the recent dress parade and inspection, received much attention. The Chicago policeman is always an object of physical beauty, and he is especially attractive in a procession. The Chicago Hussars made a good appearance at the head of the column, and the different civic and religious societies were lined up far down the boulevard receiving their share of attention.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the order was given to march and the wheelmen leading the column struck out at a slow space, they found it a trifle difficult to pedal to march time. Everything moved nicely and the start toward Eighteenth street was made in good form. Arriving there the procession right wheeled and came back down the avenue passing in front of the reviewing stand at the Auditorium. There were many cheers for the army of temperance enthusiasts as it moved, but the marchers in passing the reviewing stand looked straight ahead as if prompted by military discipline and the cheering grew fainter. In honored places on the Auditorium balcony were Gov. Altgeld, Mayor Hopkins, Bishop Watterson, Dr. Barrows, Dr. Henson, Dr. Rumsey, Chief Marshal Burbank, members of the executive committee and a number of well-known temperance workers. After the review the different divisions broke from the main column, scattered about neighboring streets, and the marchers were dismissed. There were 15,000 in line.

MANY LOST IN A GALE AND MORE MISSING

THIRTY SEAMEN DROWN OFF NEWFOUNDLAND.

Of Three Hundred Vessels in Port At St. Pierre Not One Escaped Damage—The Storm On the Atlantic Coast—High Winds in Brooklyn—Ships in Peril.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Oct. 11.—A north east gale of exceptional force swept over this island Tuesday night. The storm was very severe at St. Pierre, Miquelon, where thirty lives were lost and great damage was done. A very heavy sea was running in the harbor. Not less than fifty vessels dragged their anchors or parted their cables and were thrown upon the shore. Some of the doomed vessels were thrown ashore in very exposed places, and the great seas breaking over them soon pounded them to pieces. No assistance could be rendered the shipwrecked men from the shore. A number of them who jumped overboard and attempted to reach the shore by swimming were drowned, while others were swept into the sea by the waves combing over their vessels and were not seen again until their bodies were cast upon the beach. The wrecked vessels were part of the fishing fleet that had put into St. Pierre from the banks to repair damages they had sustained during the heavy storm of Sept. 30. Although there were nearly 300 vessels at the port not a single one escaped without sustaining some damage. Several of the fleet are missing and grave fears are entertained that they foundered during the night.

North of Seabright and near Highland Beach the New Jersey Southern railroad track is all washed out. All the trains are tied up. Twenty-five feet of the West End hotel was torn away at Long Branch. Three horses were killed during the day by coming in contact with live electric wires which had been blown down. Two deaths are reported as the result of the storm in the city.

Long Island near Huntington was swept by the storm. It is reasonably certain that four lives have been lost. The wind blew from the northeast at the rate of sixty miles an hour and the tide was the highest known for thirty years.

IN CHINA'S HEART

MARCH ON PEKIN IS NOW REALLY BEGUN.

European Powers Agree Not to Interfere—China Appeals to Germany to Call Off the Mikado's Troops—General Foreign Affairs Dwarfed in Interest By the War.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11.—It is rumored that 40,000 Japanese troops have landed near Shan Hai Kwan, on the boundary between the Chinese provinces of Manchuria and Chi Li, at the eastern end of the great wall which traverses China. The telegraph wires have been cut, thus hindering communication with that district. A report, which is classed here as unreliable, says the Japanese have effected a landing near New Chwang, Gulf of Loao Ton. Shan Hai Kwan is directly on the railroad building from Tien Tsin to Moukden and is of great strategic importance. The opinion has been expressed if Shan Hai Kwan is captured there is nothing to prevent the Japanese from marching on Pekin. It is reported that several Japanese warships have been sighted off Takau. A dispatch from Tien Tsin says the British and Russian ministers have arrived there and will proceed at once to Pekin. A report reaches this city that after a skirmish north of the Yalu river the Japanese outposts were driven back across the river. Advice here from Port Arthur say the repairs to the Chinese fleet engaged in the battle of the Yalu river have been completed and that the fleet will proceed to sea to-day.

FOR EUROPEAN INTERVENTION.

The London Times Does Not Believe It Would Be Successful.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Times, in an editorial article, contends that any attempt on the part of the powers to stop the war between China and Japan must fail unless supported by a tremendous display of force, which, it says, is out of the question.

The Standard argues in favor of the immediate intervention of the powers, including the United States, in the Chinese-Japanese war. It urges England to take the initiative and prevent awkward complications through Russian intervention. It thinks Japan would be satisfied with the neutrality of Korea, a monetary indemnity, and the possession of Foo Choo Highlands and the Island of Formosa.

FATAL WORK OF WIND.

Building Crashes Through a House at New York Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—At 3:20 o'clock yesterday a seven-story building in course of construction at 74 Monroe street was blown down by the gale. It crashed through a two-story building at No. 72, demolishing it completely. Two families with boarders lived at No. 72. They were all buried in the ruins. So far nine have been taken out dead and fourteen badly injured. Four are still missing.

The building which fell has been in the course of erection for the past two months. It was to have been occupied when completed as a foundry.

Ever since the foundation was laid there have been complaints on every side that the structure was a weak, flimsy affair and many had expressed the belief that it would fall before the roof could be put on. The roof had not been completed ten hours when the building crashed in.

"That building," said a witness, "was more badly put up than any that was ever put up by Budensiek." Budensiek is the man that went to state's prison for eighteen years for using sand in the building of houses instead of mortar.

HOW 500 VISITORS WERE CARED FOR

JANESVILLE ARRANGEMENTS THOROUGH AND EFFECTIVE

Assignment Committees Have Worked Like Trojans During the Last Three Days Bringing Hosts and Guests Together—Bookings Made a Week in Advance.

There are two ways of taking a census of these Baptists and Presbyterian delegates.

One is to count 'em.

Another is to count the wrinkles on Millard Calkins and W. E. Clinton's foreheads.

These two devoted men have superintended the quartering of ministers and ministers' wives and ministers' lay companions. With each snarl in the system their wrinkles have grown.

That there were so few snarls speaks volumes for the systematic and satisfactory methods adopted.

Both assignment committees have been warmly praised by the guests.

"We handled five hundred delegates in Milwaukee last year," said Rev. E. W. White to Mr. Clinton, "but I never saw so perfect a system as you have here."

In both the Presbyterian and the Baptist churches the plan of advance assignment was followed. A week beforehand a list of homes was made out with the number of men and the number of women who could be entertained at each. Most of the delegates also reported by mail and were assigned to places at once. Only a small percentage were left to be booked when the crowds poured in.

"But I don't really know whether this advance booking saved much time, said one of the Presbyterian committee last night. "People who have been assigned to certain houses didn't come. Others came, of course, without sending notification. If we tried to put them in the place of people who hadn't come the absentees would be sure to turn up half a day later. I don't know but we would have fared better if we simply had made a list of entertainers with the number of guests each could take. Then as fast as the visitors came we could have gone right down the list and given them the first places unassigned."

The reception committee found they had much to do besides putting 150 delegates into 151 rooms, "with one to carry." Delegates met old college friends and particularly requested that both be assigned to the same house. That meant a "switch." Another delegate might ask to have a bed to himself as his rheumatism made him a very restless bed-fellow. That would mean another "switch." Before the first day was ended the order seemed to be "all hands round."

But there were few hitches. Every delegate was cared for and cared for well. When a town of Janesville's size can do this with five hundred visitors it speaks well for her hospitality. A showing has already been made of the pleasant places into which the lines of Baptist visitors fell. Presbyterians fared quite as well. Here is the list, man and wife being indicated by a star:

F. S. Baines—Rev. A. N. Smith, O. G. Bennett—Rev. Anderson, Rev. Smith*, Rev. Rankin.

William Blair—Rev. Roth, Rev. Lange, Rev. Kersel.

FIRE SMOLDERED IN THE CLOSET

Four Hundred Dollar Blaze In Mrs. S. L. James House on Terrace Street

The two-story frame tenement house, 61 Terrace street, suffered three or four hundred dollars damage by fire last evening. The house had been unoccupied since last June, but had just been leased to Engineer A. F. Seileck, who was preparing to take possession. Yesterday workmen were employed about the house, and the fire was undoubtedly the result of carelessness. The fire originated in a closet on the second floor, and had evidently been burning slowly two or three hours. It was first discovered about twenty minutes after 8 o'clock by Master Mechanic J. C. Fox, of the St. Paul railway, who was passing on West Bluff street. The fire was then just breaking through the roof. The building is owned by Mrs. S. L. James, who has an insurance of $1,500 with Metcalf & Cleland, with the usual permit for unoccupied buildings. The department was somewhat delayed on account of the pulling of the wrong box. Box 13, located at the corner of Ravine and Pearl streets, was pulled, instead of box 56, on Pleasant street. This gave the department a needless run of nearly half a mile.

WILL CAUCUS FOR ASSEMBLYMAN

Primary Meetings to Be Held in This City Next Tuesday Evening.

The Third assembly district convention will be held on the 18th inst., and the primary caucuses for the election of delegates to this convention will be held on Tuesday evening, October 16, at 7:30 o'clock. Edgerton and Fulton have chosen delegates already. The canvass is nearing a point where public sentiment as to the favorite candidates is well defined. The republicans of the Third district must go into the contest with a strong candidate, and one with no vulnerable points. With such a man they are reasonably sure of success, notwithstanding the fact that the district is very close.

UNCLE SAM IS ASKED TO DO THE TEACHING

NO NATIONAL SUPPORT FOR RELIGIOUS SCHOOLS

Baptists Pass a Resolution Criticising the Government's Action in Appropriating $4,500,000 to Church Institutions—Young People Have An Afternoon to Themselves—Officers Chosen Today.

Baptists don't want church schools supported by the government. They spoke very plainly their disapproval. Dr. T. J. Morgan, who addressed the convention on national phases of the home mission work, was Indian commissioner under President Harrison. A controversy as to national support for Indian schools of a sectarian nature arose during his administration. Dr. Morgan did not refer to the matter in his address last evening, but his presence led to a discussion, and this resolution was presented by B. F. Dunwiddie and was adopted:

"WHEREAS, during the last eight years, there has been appropriated from the treasury of the United States, to various religious bodies, nearly four millions of dollars, of which one religious organization alone has received nearly two and a half millions for the prosecution of mission work among the Indians.

And whereas, the use of the public money is contrary to the spirit of the constitution is opposed to public policy and fruitful to religious controversy and of political corruption. Therefore be it,

RESOLVED, That we the Baptists of Wisconsin, in state convention assembled, hereby protest against any further use of public money for sectarian purposes, and we ask congress to discontinue the entire contract school system, and substitute public national schools in which Indians may be properly trained in American citizenship. And be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each senator of this state, to the member of congress of this district, and to the secretary of the interior.

From home missions the convention turned to foreign missions. An address was made by Prof. H. M. Burchard after the morning devotional exercises. An hour was then given to the Woman's Baptist Foreign Mission society. Mrs. William Lindsay directed this work. Miss Susie F. Groves made a detailed report. Miss Louise L. Crane told of the organization of the girls' society known as "Farther Lights."

At 11 o'clock the report of the state committee on foreign missions was read by Rev. J. J. Gorham and an address by Rev. William Ashmore followed.

Election of Society Officers.

The members of the Woman's Baptist Home Mission society re-elected these officers for the ensuing year.

Milwaukee Seeks a National Convention

A resolution was adopted by the convention urging the claims of Milwaukee as a meeting place for the Baptist Young People's Union of America in 1896. Rev. O. P. Bestor of Evansville was named as the association's visitor to the divinity school of the Chicago University, and the meeting adjourned to give place to the young people.

Janesville young people played a prominent part in the exercises of the afternoon. About one hundred delegates from different branches of the B. Y. P. U. brightened the auditorium with their fresh young faces and heard the address of welcome by David Tennant. Joseph Moody responded. Miss Belle Tennant read a paper on "The Three C's—Bible Readers' Course," and Miss Pearl Miller spoke of the sacred literature course.

The missionary conquest course was treated by Rev. E. R. Clevenger. Miss

A THRILLING TALE.

Terrible Experience In the Core Regions.

A Life Is Saved By a Most Timely Interference.

A Person Who Knew Just What to Do and Did Not Hesitate

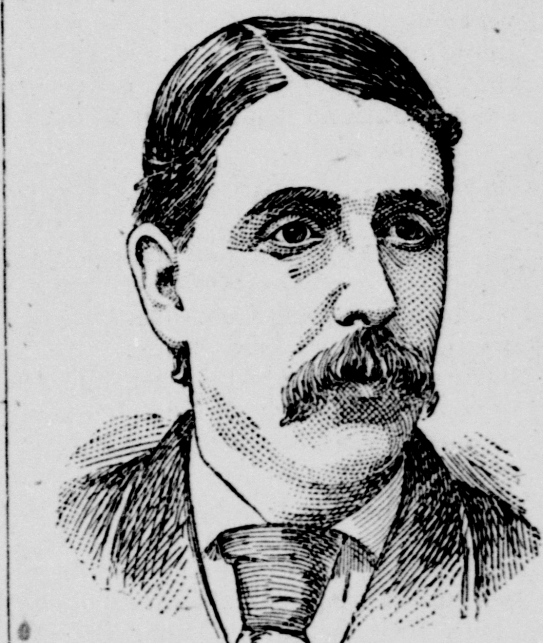

There is no happier or more surprised person than Mr. Peter W. Meredith, of 338 West Savory Street, Palo Alto, Schuylkill county, Pa. He has been at death's door and knows how to value life and health. He suffered the most frightful agonies from dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and neuralgia.

When the stomach is weak or diseased the blood becomes bad, the nerves weak, the kidneys, liver and bowels inactive, and the whole system is out of order. Complete prostration often follows such conditions. The following letter from Mr. Meredith will explain the surest way to recover your health:

"I had been sick for the past six months with dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and neuralgia of the chest. I was in dreadful misery and suffered most intense pain. The agony I endured was terrible. I thought to put an end to my life and sufferings, for I was burden to my family and myself.

"I could hardly eat anything, and what little I did only gave me the greatest distress. I had a bad taste in the mouth and my tongue was coated. I would be awake all night and could get no sleep at all. I was attended by several doctors but without benefit.

"They prescribed medicines for me and took all my money, but did me no good.

MR. PETER W. MEREDITH.

"I was feeling terribly discouraged and thought I should never get well. One day a neighbor came in and advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I recommended using it and very soon began to perceive wonderful improvement. It did me more good than any medicine I ever took. One day my family doctor came in and seeing the bottle on the stand asked me what I was using.

"I showed it to him and he said it was a very good medicine. 'Yes, I said, 'it has done me good and I intend continuing its use.' I continued taking it and it has gradually cured me. I consider Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a wonderful medicine and the best one there is. I recommend it to all my friends and advise every one to use it."

If you are suffering from indigestion, constipation, kidney or liver complaint, neuralgia, nervousness, sleeplessness, morphine or liquor habit, or any form of nervous, chronic or blood disease, take that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and you will surely get well.

Take it now and get cured. It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

FEVER AFTER FIRE IN THE PINE WOODS

REV. W. A. KERSWELL COMES DOWN FROM PHILLIPS.

He Had Personal Charge Of the Relief Work and Says There Is Clothing Enough On Hand But That Bedding Is Not So Plentiful—There Is Much Typhoid Fever.

Fresh from the scenes of horror around Phillips comes W. A. Kerswell. Mr. Kerswell had personal charge of the distribution of supplies to the Phillips sufferers and tells heart-rending tales of the destitution he found.

Rev. Mr. Kerswell is here attending the Presbyterian synod. He is a stalwart, very wide-awake young man and needed all his strength and energy to accomplish the big task which was laid upon.

"What is the condition in the burned district now?" he was asked by a Gazette reporter.

"There is clothing enough, I think," was the response, "but bedding may be a little scarce before the winter is really upon us. The thing we have to fight hardest now is typhoid fever. Many cases have sprung up and deaths are numerous. The sanitary conditions cannot help but be very bad."

MANY DEER HUNTED WITH DOGS

Game Laws are Being Violated Openly in the Northern Wisconsin Woods.

The deer season is open and the Northern Wisconsin woods are alive with hunters. Deer are very plentiful and as the season advances more will be killed. Hunters are in the woods chasing deer with hounds. Among a party from Brule is a game warden. Four dogs are with the party, it is alleged, and they have been playing havoc with the deer. The residents of that town have entered a complaint to the state game warden and intend to convict the guilty parties if possible.

THE BIRD SLAUGHTER.

Jadie Chollet Calls the Traffic Wicked and the Work Cruel.

At an auction room in London not long since were sold 404,000 birdskins from the West Indies and Brazil as well as $56,000 from the East Indies. All these were of choice and brilliant colors and designed for millinery purposes. This wholesale slaughter is being continually carried on at home and abroad by birdcatchers, some so called sporting men and thousands of other nondescripts regularly engaged in the wicked traffic, and who are well paid for their work. Birds' wings are in great demand for ladies' bonnets, and as a consequence myriads of these living gems of nature are barbarously hunted to their death.

One of the numerous trifles that make up a fashionably trimmed bonnet is a slender spiral feather of the most fragile appearance, which waves and nods with the slightest waft of wind. It is worn, too, in the evening and may be seen in every tin, surmounting aigrets of roses or a group of butterflies which seem to repose on folds of airy net or tulle. The ornament is called an osprey. The original owners are the egrets and the smaller sort of heron, who wear them in the spring and the breeding season. The cruelty practiced in obtaining them, if generally known, would surely put an end to the traffic in these plumes, however graceful and becoming they may be. The old birds are deliberately killed off in scores while employed in feeding their young, who are left to starve to death in their nests in hundreds. Their dying cries are described as heartrending.

A pretty hat, made so without the aid of wings or aigrets, is shown in the sketch. It is of mixed green and white straw and is trimmed with green ribbons and red cherries, with their leaves.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

TAILOR MADE AND OTHER GOWNS.

Fall Fashions in Colors, Qualities, Styles and Trimmings.

The Marie Antoinette fleche, especially when made of the same goods as the thin gown with which it is to be worn, is as faintly an accessory as could be devised and makes a charming finish to a costume of muslin, taffeta or mousseline de soie. The frills or full lace with which it is trimmed renders it as becoming to slender women as the box.

Most of the really pretty fashions seem to be meant for slender women, the tailor styles alone being left as the special vantage ground of full rounded proportions. It is rather a pity that tailor made gowns are not universally becoming, as they are extremely simple and convenient and stand a great deal of rough usage without showing any ill effects, whereas frills, puffs and ruffles are soon dusty or dragged, and when they have once lost the crispness and fluffiness that were their chief beauty are very little more than untidy wisps of cloth.

Speaking of tailor made fashions, covert cloth is as fashionable this fall as it was last spring, and in tan, mode or gray shades makes most serviceable gowns and coats. The skirt of the gown requires no lining, but should be worn over a silk petticoat. One petticoat of some serviceable shade may thus take the place of a separate lining to a number of skirts and will be found a useful addition to the ordinary wardrobe. Dark and medium shades are suitable for street use, while delicate tones should be reserved for indoor and evening wear, being easily defaced and always getting the worst of the dust raised in walking.

The sketch shows a gown of black mousseline de soie. The skirt is accented plaited, while the bodice is shirred to form a yoke. The upper part of the puffed elbow sleeves is shirred to fit the round of the shoulder. A full fleche surrounds the open neck, and a black moire ribbon is tied around the waist.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Lavender Toilet Vinegar.

A simple yet delightful toilet vinegar can be made thus: Macerate one-fourth pound of fresh lavender for a fortnight in about a quart of vinegar. A few drops in water form an admirable lotion for the skin. It alleviates headache, while it is strongly antiseptic, cooling and refreshing in the sickroom. A little may be placed in a saucer or sprinkled about near the bed, and a few drops in water used for bathing the head, face and hands.

Second Girl—That's true, but I don't think he's nearly as interesting as a man with a future.

Third Girl—The man who interests me is the man with a present, and the more expensive the present is the more interest I take in it.—Boston Budget.

Not to Be Surpassed.

When the opera company was in New York the ladies of that city were bitten by a mania for obtaining autographs of the artists, and would send their books with requests for signatures to be appended. In one of these books Signor Campanini had signed his name, and some one had written after it: "The finest tenor in the world." Shortly afterward the same book reached Ravelli, whose knowledge of English was rather more peculiar than extensive. He saw the addendum to the signature of his friend and could not at first understand it. However, somebody explained the meaning to him, and when the owner of the book received it back she found written under the flattering description of Signor Campanini: "Luigi Ravelli, me, too."

Sandwich Soldiers.

An ingenious Belgian has constructed a double bullet-proof cuirass to protect both front and back, and his idea is that in times of peace it should be employed as a pair of sandwich boards and worn by the soldiers. In this way much revenue would come to the army, and the forces would be kept out of mischief.

Don't Offer a Reward

For your lost appetite. All know that it is a valuable piece of personal property, but why go to the expense when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will restore it to you. A course of that unparalleled tonic and corrective not only induces a return of the relish for food, but confers upon the stomach the power to gratify appetite with unimpeded sensuousness afterward. For the purpose of quickening digestion, arousing a dormant liver or kidneys, and establishing regularity of the bowels, no medicine can exceed this genial family cordial, in which the pure alcohol is combined with the most efficacious botanical elements of the highest efficacy. Avoid the fiery unalloyed stimulants of commerce as a means of overcoming inactivity of any of the organs above mentioned, and use, instead, the Bitters. This professionally sanctioned medicine remedies malarial and rheumatic ailments.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

Dr. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 25 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headaches, dizziness, distress, constipation, pressure, blues, neuralgia, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principles. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of order, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5 express prepaid. NOT THE MAN TO MAKE TARIFF LAWS

Chairman W. L. Wilson has been explaining hard, ever since he returned from Europe, but he has not yet denied that under the inspiration of the memorable London dinner he flattered the British preferences by saying, we had learned in this country that "free government is the most complex and difficult of all forms of government, and judging from the world's experience, the most uncertain and short-lived." There can be no misunderstanding in the matter of such talk. It is intended to disparage the principles and methods which constitute our political system, and by which our unprecedented prosperity and progress have been attained. The charge of garbling is not sufficient to put out of sight the fact that the speaker bore false witness against his own country. He must be judged by what he said, and not by what he now wishes he had said. His speech was in every sense a most imprudent and discreditable one, and the American people will not be persuaded to forgive it. He may circulate a revised version of it, with the specially offensive portions omitted, as he evidently intends to do; but the original report, written by himself, will still remain to condemn him, and to convince the voters of his district that he should not be re-elected to congress.

The prices of hogs have fallen about $1 per 100 pounds since the new tariff bill took effect and the reciprocity treaties were abrogated. It is not to be doubted that the farmers are taking note of this practical reason for voting against the democratic party.

It is said that Jerry Simpson is the only populist candidate for congress in Kansas, who is likely to be elected, and there is yet time for the republicans to make their energy equal to the prevention of that peculiarly undesirable result.

Governor-elect Atkinson, of Georgia, ascribes the remarkable reduction of the democratic majority in that state to the speeches of Secretary Hoke Smith against free silver; but Speaker Crisp made much better speeches in favor of free silver; and still the slump ensued.

Since the passage of the Wilson tariff bill, the advance in the quotations of the shares of two English iron companies has been $750,000; but we do not hear of any such advantages accruing to similar companies in this country.

Voorhees attributes the hard times to "the scarcity of money in the hands of the people." The St. Louis Globe-Democrat thinks this is a good deal like saying that when a creek runs dry it is for the want of water.

The Japs have a new war song, entitled "Fight as Long as Breath Lasts." Now that the campaign has become a sprinting match, the ditty has lost none of its popularity.

Young people will have full sway again this evening and tomorrow the missionary appointments will be made and missionary work for the year planned.

PRESBYTERIANS ADJOURN TONIGHT

Work of the Synod Has Been Hastened By Efficient Management.

The Presbyterian synod will adjourn this evening. Its work has been expedited by the admirable management of the moderator and stated clerk. Rev. W. F. Brown was elected synodical missionary of the state this afternoon. The office is an important one and commands a good salary. The officers who will serve for the next year are:

Moderator—Dr. W. L. Greene, Poyette.

Stated Clerk—Rev. A. V. C. Schenck, D. D., Madison.

Permanent Clerk—Rev. C. L. Richards, Baraboo.

Temporary Clerks—Rev. Walter Johnson, Ironwood; Rev. John F. Cowling, Belville.

The different reports show that in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont no Presbyterian churches exist.

In New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, however, the church is strong enough to more than offset this.

In New York city alone there are upwards of 150 Presbyterian churches.

Reports on Presbyterian educational institutions were made today and the finance report was considered.

Rev. Frank A. Pease of this city brought greetings from the Wisconsin M. E. conference. Response was made by the moderator.

The addresses and reports today were: "The Religious Demands of Our Day," Rev. Guido Bossard; Systematic Benevolence Report, Rev. C. S. Nickerson; Carroll College Report, Rev. H. A. Talbot; Gale College Report, Rev. J. H. Richey, D. D.; Poyette Academy Report, Rev. C. L. Richards; Aid for Colleges Report, Rev. S. L. McKee; Higher Educational Institutions Report, Rev. A. A. Kiehle.

There are also reports from corresponding bodies as follows:

Welsh Presbyterian synod, Elder Robert Shields; Wisconsin conference, M. E. church, Rev. Guido Bossard; West Wisconsin conference, M. E. church, Rev. J. W. McNary; Wisconsin Congregational convention, Rev. D. C. Jones; Wisconsin Baptist convention, Rev. J. S. Wilson; Lake Forest university, Rev. William Chester; McCormick Theological seminary, Rev. Rollo Branch; Downer college, Rev. W. T. Turner.

Rev. W. F. Brown D. D. will present the report on church erection this evening, and the affairs of Downer Home will be considered. Free conversation and prayer will close the synod's session.

—is often a sufferer from headache. The seat of sick headache is not in the brain, for if you regulate the stomach and bowels you'll cure it. Too much brain-work and brain-tire brings on a rush of blood to the head with headache, dizziness or "nose bleed."

Miss BERTHA WOLFE, of Dayton, Cataraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I suffered from loss of appetite, constipation, neuralgia, and great weakness, and had terrible attacks of sick headache very frequently; also, nose bleed. My health was so poor that I was unable to go to school for two years. I took Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and Golden Medical Discovery, and in a short time I was strong and well. Many friends are taking your medicines, seeing what they have done for me."

GAS MAY BE FATAL TO AN AGED PASTOR

VENERABLE VISITOR FOUND UNCONSCIOUS TODAY.

Rev. A. W. Smith, 90 Years of Age, Is Discovered In His Bed Room At Mrs. C. T. Wright's Residence Totally Unconscious—Can Hardly Recover.

Probably too late to save his life. Rev. A. W. Smith an aged minister from Delavan, was found unconscious in his bed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christian I. Wright, 156 South Jackson street this morning.

The open stop cock in the gas fixture told the story.

Rev. Mr. Smith was a delegate to the Baptist convention, representing the Delavan church and was quartered at Mrs. Wright's boarding house.

"Mr. Wright, I would like a light in my room," he said when he was ready to retire last night.

"Yes, sir," Mr. Wright replied. "I will light the gas for you."

After the gas had been lighted, Mr. Wright showed his aged guest how it worked and left him. That was the last seen of him until six o'clock this morning, when the inmates of the house began to awaken. A strong odor of gas was noticed and was followed to Rev. Mr. Smith's room. The door was opened and a flood of the death dealing vapor came out.

Was Apparently Dead.

Lying on the bed and apparently dead lay the aged clergyman with his face as deathly white as his snowy hair and beard. The stop cock of the gas fixture was open and showed plainly that Mr. Smith had first extinguished and then accidentally turned it on again. Physicians were called and worked hard to bring the victim back to consciousness, but up to noon their efforts were futile. But little hope was expressed for his recovery as he had been inhaling gas all night and was apparently as far gone as he could be and yet alive.

A faint respiration once in a while was the only sign of life. Rev. Mr. Smith's relatives at Delavan were at once notified by telegraph and came on the first train.

"Mr. Smith was totally unconscious when I first saw him," said Dr. E. F. Woods; the attending physician "he was an old man; about eighty years of age; and his recuperative powers are considerably weakened. If he pulls through tonight he may recover."

Elder Smith, as the old man is lovingly known at his home, is a man of patriarchal presence, with crisp flowing white hair that falls about his shoulders, reminding one of the famous freedman, Frederick Douglass.

In the earlier days of the state he was a traveling preacher, and his son is now in the Advent ministry.

SUIT FOR $20,000 AGAINST SHEARER

FIFTH WARD SCHOOL CATASTROPHE IN COURT.

Widows of Patrick Hagerty, A. Benwitz and John Flaherty Begin Actions for $5,000 Apiece—Fred Meissner Wants Pay for His Injuries On the Y. M. C. A. Block.

Contractor James Shearer was today made defendant in four damage suits in the circuit court, each suit involving five thousand dollars, or a total of twenty thousand.

Three of these suits are brought by the widows and heirs of the three men who were killed on June 26, 1891, by the falling of the walls of the old Fifth ward school building—Patrick Hagerty, A. Benwitz and John Flaherty.

The fourth suit is brought by Fred Meissner, who fell and sustained injuries while at work on the Y. M. C. A. building last summer.

Colonel Clarence L. Clark and Winans & Hyzer are attorneys for Meissner, and Sutherland & Nolan are attorneys for Mr. Shearer.

Colonel Clark is attorney for the plaintiffs in the other three actions, having Winans & Hyzer as counsel, Sutherland & Nolan appear for the defendant in each case.

The papers were served this morning and the cases will probably be tried at the November term.

"How about the statute of limitation in the cases of the Fifth ward school house victims," asked the reporter of Attorney Nolan this afternoon.

"The plaintiffs, I believe, claim fraud as an offset," he replied. "They will, I understand, endeavor to show that they were all made to understand that one thousand dollars would be paid to each of the widows, that the money would be raised by subscription, and understanding that this money would be raised they neglected to commence legal proceedings before."

—THE DIAMOND—

THE SOVEREIGN POET.

He sits above the clang and dust of time,
With the world's secret trembling on his lip
He asks not converse nor companionship
In the cold starlight, where thou canst not climb.

The undelivered tidings in his breast
Suffer him not to rest.
He sees afar the immemorial throng
And hinds the scattered ages with a song.

The glorious riddle of his rhythmic breath,
His might, his spell, we know not what they be.

We only feel, whatever he uttereth,
This savors not of death;
This hath a relish of eternity.

—William Watson in Spectator.

THE SILK CORD.

The noble Chao-Se was very unhappy. Nevertheless his rice crop had been unusually abundant; the white flowers of the tea plant filled his gardens; his silk cocoons were never richer; he was the lucky possessor of an autograph letter from the emperor, in which could be seen the word chao, a credential of long life, and, lastly, he had seen divided in 10,000 pieces the body of his enemy Po-Kong, who had affronted him by cutting off his pigtail.

Why, then, had our noble Chinese ordered the image of Fo to be belabored with sticks, leaving a mere wreck of that deity standing amid fragments of his former porcelain and imposing figure? And that evening at supper why had he disputed with his ancient cook the excellence of a magnificent dish of roast dog that all the guests had pronounced exquisite, disdained a cup of the finest Kyson tea and paid no attention to his pet monkey, in spite of all his playful caresses?

"Respected kinsmen," said Chao-Se gravely, after the meal had ended, to the three venerable Chinamen squatting at his side, "you all know that I had intended presenting my son at the court of our Celestial Kingdom."

The speaker and his hearers inclined their heads until their pigtailed swept the floor, and it became necessary to remove the monkey, who imitated the action of these grave personages. Chao-Se continued:

"My son, Te-Ku, has not regarded my teachings. He does not know how to bend the body gracefully 18 times in making our court bow, nor is he familiar with the unalterable forms of our Celestial etiquette. He has rejected my old friend Ling's virtuous daughter, whose tiny feet could be incased in nutshells, and, let this astonish you, dear friends, defied by Chung, whose honored body now reposes in the tomb, he refused to disembowel himself, while his adversary expired triumphant with his abdomen ripped open in the most approved fashion. In this disgrace I have called you together, being resolved to follow your advice as to the best means of saving the family honor."

"You should, above all, disinherit Te-Ku," said the eldest of the council. "And divide your possessions among us," added the second.

"And as the family honor is tarnished a sacrifice is necessary," said the third. "You should strangle yourself in order that the reputation of our house may not perish."

Such was the decision of the council. Chao-Se now, too late, regretted having convoked it.

"What present is this you are bringing me?" asked the wife of Chao-Se that same night, noticing that her husband had placed a small ivory box upon the table of her room.

"Beautiful and dearly beloved Tian, I have a surprise for you," replied the noble Chinese gallantly.

Tian gathered herself up on her couch, exposing to view a pair of tiny feet some two or three inches in length.

"You have been a good wife," continued Chao-Se kindly, "and I desire that you should figure in history as a model of virtue. Well, then, the family council has decided that I must sacrifice myself to restore our lost reputation, but as I have a certificate of long life from my sovereign it would be an act of ingratitude on my part to cut short my own existence. I have therefore selected you, dear Tian, as my substitute, that you may save our honor with the silk cord you will find in that box. I am sure you will be grateful to me for this mark of distinction and proof of my deep affection."

"Sir," exclaimed Tian terrified, "I dare not kill myself. I am as timid as a chicken."

"Calm yourself, my dear. If you cannot do it alone, being as timid as a chicken, I'll get the cook to help you," and the noble Chao-Se embraced his wife tenderly and withdrew from the apartment.

Tian appeared calm. Kin, the cook, was uneasy.

"Kin," said she, "thou needest repose."

"I sleep little, my lady," replied Kin, rubbing his eyes.

"Thou shouldst have desires of enjoying in the next world the pleasures that have been reserved for thee."

"I am ignorant of what the great Buddha may have in store for me there."

"Dost thou wish to fly with me?" asked Tian, gazing lovingly at the poor cook.

"My lady!" exclaimed he, trembling. "To fly from a house where they do not appreciate thy roasts, to unite thyself to me and become master of my magnificent jewels."

Kin kissed the floor to express his gratitude.

"Avoiding the vengeance of Chao-Se,"

"Oh, yes!" faltered the trembling cook.

"There is a way to accomplish all this. Thy master, Chao-Se, protected by the emperor's decree, will yet live many years, during which time we shall be able to leave this earth and lose ourselves in space."

"I don't understand."

"It is very simple. I wish thee to accompany me in this last journey. Take this cord and hang thyself outside the door while I gather up my jewels and prepare to follow thee."

Kin opened his oblique eyes in horror. Tian gave him a languishing glance. "Goodbye," she said. "Do not fail me," and pushed him gently toward the door, slipping around his neck the soft, silken cord.

As Kin left the apartment he heard a noise in an adjoining room. "It must be the monkey," he said to himself, and then continued meditatively: "For two reasons I had better not kill myself. In the first place, because I have no certainty of reviving in the other world, and, secondly, because if I do come to life again the mighty Fo will be able to take vengeance upon me for the beating I have given his image."

Again the noise was heard. It was not the monkey, but Te-Ku who made it, robbing the treasure chest of his father. The garden window was open. The jewels showed glitteringly through the open mouth of a sack. Kin, indignant, could not do less than reproach him for his conduct, at the same time revealing to him the predicament in which he had placed the family.

Te-Ku implored him to speak lower, but Kin responded each time in a louder voice. At length the unhappy youth exclaimed, conscience stricken, "Give me the cord. I am the true culprit, and to me should belong the sacrifice!" And making a noose in one end of the fatal cravat he tied the other to the window frame, swung the bag of jewels to his shoulder for the expenses of the journey, and embracing the cook affectionately said to him:

"Go now and leave me alone. I do not wish thee to witness my death agony."

Kin had not complete confidence in his young master, but did not dare disobey his command. As he descended the stairway leading to the garden he heard a heavy blow, followed by a peculiar squeak.

"Can he have fled?" Kin asked himself, doubtfully.

The garden was very dark, but a body hung quivering at the end of the cord. This Kin could see plainly, but he did not observe a dark form stealing away among the trees.

"I've got myself nicely out of that scrape," said Kin, with a sigh of relief, passing his hand pensively around his neck. After a few moments of meditation he entered his room, filled his pipe with opium, and stretching himself on his mat soon fell into a deep sleep.

The following morning at daybreak the relatives of Chao-Se, attired in white, the mourning costume of the Chinese, presented themselves at his house prepared to render to his corpse the last tributes, but to their great surprise they found him awaiting them, also dressed in white, and maintaining a ceremonious attitude.

"What, still alive?" they exclaimed indignantly.

Chao-Se then related to them all that had occurred—his scruples, the timidity of his wife, the substitution of the cook and the voluntary expiation of his son. The others, after an animated discussion, agreed to accept this solution of the difficulty.

"Let us now go to the garden, into which nobody has yet entered," said Chao-Se solemnly. "There we shall view the body of my unhappy son."

The committee made their way to the garden, but upon arriving at the scene of the catastrophe were stupefied with amazement. Suspended by the silken cord, and swinging to and fro like a pendulum, was the rigid body of a monkey.

"That is not my son!" exclaimed Chao-Se horrified.

"Sir, I saw him place the noose around his neck," replied the cook. "Without doubt the monkey has fled in the figure of your son, leaving his own image behind him. There is something of magic in this—the divine Fo is avenged."

"No such thing," said the prospective inheritors of the estate, with decision. "It's the body of Te-Ku. Don't you see the resemblance to the father? It is his very image!"

"But, gentlemen," protested Chao-Se, defending himself, "look at that mouth!"

"It is your own, noble Chao-Se," replied the others.

"Are identical with yours," and in a whisper, "Remember that a victim was required!"

The distinguished Chinaman admitted at length that the body was that of his son, although certainly somewhat disfigured.

Consequently the death of Te-Ku was officially certified to, the remains were given a magnificent burial, and the family council declared the honor of the house of Chao-Se to be fully re-established.

In spite of the certificate of long life, Chao-Se survived his son only a few months. Then came to take charge of the inheritance a young man who claimed to be Te-Ku and declared that he had fled from the paternal mansion some time before, jumping from the garden window and scaling the wall.

The case having been submitted to the highest tribunal in the land a learned mandarin rendered the following decision, which is still a precedent in China to settle disputes of a similar nature:

"The death and burial of Te-Ku having been legally proven:

"No one having been missed from the house of Chao-Se on the night in question except a monkey, whose whereabouts are now unknown:

"Be it decided, therefore, that if the claimant speaks truly in regard to the flight he can be no other than the monkey."

"And if he has failed to speak the truth he deserves to be executed with the cord that the relatives of the deceased still retain in their possession."

In this alternative Te-Ku decided to declare himself a monkey and was forthwith handed over to a traveling mountebank—Translated From the Spanish For Short Stories.

BRIEF BITS OF HUMOR.

The Rival Hairdressers.

"One of the two, by way of advertising himself, cuts his hair in the most faultless manner, according to the latest fashion plate; the other, on the contrary, cuts his in the most clumsy way imaginable. The first customer who entered his shop did not fail to take him to task about it. "How in the world, being yourself a barber, do you have your hair so badly cut?"

"Why, sir, the reason is simple enough. I cannot possibly cut my hair myself, but am obliged to have recourse to my colleague over the way, and he is such a duffer!"

"And I suppose you cut his in turn?"

"Of course. And you can judge for yourself whether he oughtn't to be satisfied."—H. Carline.

He Couldn't Get Away.

His grace the duke had sat for several moments silent.

"Of course," the heiress was observing, absently toying with her fan, "you are a landed nobleman?"

The man in whom centered all her hopes of getting into high society sighed deeply.

"Practically," he rejoined, gloomily; "I owe your old man so much money that I can't get away."

Rising with a glad cry, she fell on his neck.—Detroit Tribune.

The Lawyer.

In college days he used to lie on shady banks of brooks.

Which babbed soft accompaniments to what he read in books.

Now he has laid his studies by.

To seek the legal dime.

And, quite forgetting other days, He lies most all the time.

—Detroit Free Press

SOURD EARLY IN LIFE.

Lillian—Ain't that your brother? Maud—Yes! Lillian—Why don't yer interdooce me? Maud—He's a misanthrope; he's been crost in love an' he's giv' our sex the cold shake!—Life.

A New Remedy.

Smith—My house is full of fleas.

Jones—I can tell you how you can get rid of them.

"How?"

"Give a party, and then the fleas will go off on the guests."—Tammany Times.

Almost the Same.

Mr. Cawker—I overheard Mrs. Cumso saying your new bonnet was a dream.

Mrs. Cawker (deeply gratified)—Yes!

Mr. Cawker—Well, it was about the same thing. She said it was a nightmare.—Town Topics.

Daubleigh Gush—O, what a lovely face Miss Hanton has! How I should love to paint it.

"Why, mamma told papa yesterday it is time that I look around for a man."—Truth.

Butcher—Yes; having no sense of sight they make up by having a sight of sense.—Puck.

Did the Same Thing.

Mr. Oldboie—I am a self-made man, sir. I began life as a barefoot boy.

Kennard—Indeed. Well, I wasn't born with shoes on, either.—Truth.

The Difference.

Mamma—Do stop crying, Tommy. You don't hear me cry when my hair is combed.

Tommy—Boo-hoo-oo! Yours isn't hitched on.—Judge.

To Be Sure.

Mercurial Poison

Is the result of the usual treatment of blood disorders. The system is filled with Mercury and the ash remedies—more to be dreaded than the disease—and in a short while is in a far worse condition than before. The most common result is Rheumatism for which S. S. S. is the most reliable cure. A few bottles will afford relief where all else has failed.

I suffered from a severe attack of Mercurial Rheumatism, my arms and legs being swollen to more than twice their natural size, causing the most excruciating pains. I spent hundreds of dollars without relief, but after taking a few bottles of S. S. S. I improved rapidly, and am now a well man, completely cured. I can heartily recommend your wonderful medicine to anyone afflicted with this painful disease.

OUR POLICY.

When we opened our store it was with the fixed determination to use every effort to get together only goods of the most reliable quality and distribute them at the lowest consistent prices—to bring our customers as near the first cost of production as possible by doing away with the profits of immediate dealers. This we have done through our superior facilities. From this policy we have never swerved nor wavered, and those who deal with us realize that as we added each new department they have been enabled to buy the goods lower than ever before, because our first aim has been to get prices down to a legitimate basis and the assortments larger and more complete than any other. Our store is three hundred and sixty-five times better than it was a year ago, every day has been devoted to improving our stocks, our system and our service, and every day will continue to be devoted to improving. We never under any circumstances make exaggerated statements, and our advertisements are always fully sustained by the goods shown—a fact easily verified by investigating those offered to-day.

There Was a Time when Janesville heard nothing but "the foot fitter." It seemed as if a person had to graduate from a school of "foot fitting" in order to sell a $1.25 pair of shoes. But now we hear no such "bosh." "Foot fitting" has died out. The graduate is asleep, the people want the most for their money. Here it is:

Rough and Tumble Shoes for the boys, in lace, just what they admire immensely $1.25

Another Boys' Shoe, better than the above, yet 50c cheaper than any place else on the street 1.50

The Old Story Retold.

A fox just at the time of the vintage, stole into a vineyard, where the grapes ripe and sunny were trellised up on high, in a most tempting manner. He made many a jump after the luscious prize, but failed in all his attempts; he muttered as he retreated, "Well what does it matter, the grapes are sour?" We took along a step ladder and now we are feasting on the choicest of the vineyard. You have a pressing invitation to join us. Our envious neighbors are howling with rage at our constantly increasing trade. We pay no attention, barking dogs never bite. You don't care if you save money in buying your fall shoes and we don't care, if we are able to sell you.
